

Medical Student Rotations

The Columbia St. Mary's Family Medicine Residency welcomes 3rd and 4th year medical students attending either allopathic or osteopathic medical schools.

The goal of our rotations is to provide in-depth educational experiences that will allow each medical student to appreciate and advance their skills in the basic principles of family medicine.

Family Medicine brings a unique perspective to the educational process, nurturing students' education as they engage in patient care. At Columbia St. Mary's Family Medicine Residency, faculty and senior residents embrace this perspective as they demonstrate the art and science of practicing family medicine.

What you can expect

Third Year Students

- Advance your history-taking and communication skills
- Advance your physical examination skills
- Experience with progress notes and the electronic health record
- Critical appraisal of the literature; point of care information
- Ample opportunity for direct role with physician-patient encounters

Fourth Year Students

- Serve as primary physician for patients
- Family-centered patient care
- Ability to focus in a special interest area such as women's health
- Application of information technology including, point-of-care information

For more information contact:

Edward Minter, MBA
Program Manager

Office: (414)267-6520

Toll Free: (866)540-4760

E-Mail: eminter@mcw.edu